Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/21/04 has been entered.

This application is a 371 of PCT/DE99/0181206 filed on 6/19/1999. Amendments are entered. Claims 11-27 are pending. No claim is allowed at present time. Acknowledgement is made of the election of group I claims 11-18. Claims 19-27 are withdrawn from consideration as non-elected invention. Previous rejections are withdrawn because claims are amended.

Presently claimed invention of claims 11-18 are drawn to a water soluble native dry extract of Ginkgo biloba where the extract is produced by ultrafiltration using a filter having specific range of pore size (as in claim 11).

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 11-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Following reasons apply:

Art Unit: 1616

4. What does “a filter having an average of-----10000 Daltons” intend in claim 11.

The statement is confusing. Dalton is generally used for molecular weights. Redrafting of this claim is suggested. Specification discloses Polymeric membrane.

5. It is unclear what is “primary extract” in claim 14.

6. What is intended by “partially purified dry extract” in claim 15?. Whole claim 15 appears to be unclear.

6. Claim 16 is confusing as cited “undesired contents can be separated out via precipitation reactions, adsorption and desorption processes, extraction with n-butanol-type purification procedures”.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 11-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by

1. Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication (A) No. 279300/1994 (Translation).

Publication Date: 10/4/1994, The reference discloses a water-soluble Ginkgo leaf extract containing at least 20% flavone glycoside and at least 5.6% terpene lactones. See abstract, claims pages 3-11 Table 1, and page 20-21.

2. Liu, Zheng et al. (AN 1997:82596, HCAPLUS, abstract of Huaxue Shijie (1996), 37(7), 355-358). The references disclose a water-soluble extract containing total flavones from Ginkgo biloba leaves.

All the reference cited disclose presently claimed invention.

Applicant must note a technical difference, that claims are drawn to a product “water soluble extract of Ginkgo biloba” and not on the process of making or method of producing such as extract. Water-soluble products are known marketed products see prior art of record). The basis of arguments had been that prior art does not teach ultrafiltration and teach the use of solubilizing agents. The claims 11-18 is not drawn to method of making the extract but to the product obtain by the process. So arguments were not relevant to the claimed invention.

Applicant is requested to see MPEP 2144.04[R-1]

In re Rose, 220 F.2d 459, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955) (Claims directed to a lumber package “of appreciable size and weight requiring handling by a lift truck” where held unpatentable over prior art lumber packages which could be lifted by hand because limitations relating to the size of the package were not sufficient to patentably distinguish over the prior art.); In re Rinehart, 531 F.2d 1048, 189 USPQ 143 (CCPA 1976) (“mere scaling up of a prior art process capable of being scaled up, if such were the case, would not establish patentability in a claim to an old process so scaled.” 531 F.2d at 1053, 189 USPQ at 148.). In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device.
